Here are some tips that will help you relax on your holiday. We spoke to Emma O'Boyle from TripAdvisor and Gill Williams, editorial head of greentravelguides.tv. Emma says: You can save money by booking a holiday out of season, or booking well in advance. Emma O'Boyle recommends, taking a holiday during 'shoulder periods' can be a good way of saving money. Shoulder periods are the months either side of peak season. You can avoid the hot weather, crowds and high prices, yet still enjoy some beautiful temperatures. Buying a guide book on where you're going will give you loads of helpful information on what sights to see, the best and cheapest places to eat, local transport and much more. O'Boyle suggests: Ask friends for recommendations or use the internet to find a hotel that matches your criteria. You can find honest reviews online from travelers in your age bracket, looking for the same type of holiday, meaning you're far less likely to end up at a hotel full of rowdy teenagers. Choosing a hotel is very personal: what one person likes another may hate. So, don't always trust the hotel's own description. Lastly, it's a good idea to give close family or friends a list of your travel plans and any contact details, in case of emergency.

39. Which of the following information is NOT in the text?

- A) Who the people giving information about holiday tips are.
- B) When the best time to have a holiday to save money is.
